Proposal Summary
To add additional courses to the list of electives for the global poverty minor. PCC Log No. 20001.

Program and Catalog Information

Provide the catalog description of the proposed program. As part of the description, please indicate any areas of concentration or specializations that will be offered.

The Global Poverty minor develops an awareness and understanding of the dimensions of global poverty, its causes and consequences, and the scope of policies aimed at poverty alleviation. Students will discover how incentives, resources, and social and political institutions influence the incidence of poverty across and within countries. Students in the minor will explore the relationships between poverty and determinants of human welfare such as hunger, health, education and environmental quality.

Indicate the course requirements with course numbers, titles and credits. A minor should have no fewer than 15 and no more than 24 academic credits. Nine credits must be at the upper level (300 or 400-level courses).

Catalog Program Requirements:

Students must complete at least 15 credits in the minor from the following categories.

Up to 3 elective credits can be from the following (optional, and pending advisor approval):

Study abroad
No course may be used to satisfy the requirements of more than one minor.

A course cannot be used to satisfy two requirements, i.e. a course taken to satisfy either of the signature requirements cannot be used as an elective. However, some of the courses above can be used as electives after signature course requirements are satisfied.

At least 9 credits must be at the 300-400 level.

All courses presented for the minor must be passed with a grade of 'C-' or better. Beginning with students matriculating in Fall 2012, to be awarded a baccalaureate degree, students must have a minimum C (2.00) cumulative grade point average across all courses used to satisfy minor requirements.

Program Modification Information

Description and Rationale for Modifications.

Expanding the list of global poverty minor electives. We would like to add the following courses to the list:

- AREC260 The Science of Gender in Economics and Development (3 Credits)
- ANTH210 Introduction to Medical Anthropology and Global Health (3 Credits)
- ANTH310 Method & Theory in Medical Anthropology and Global Health (3 Credits)
- CCJS 325: Slavery in the Twenty First Century: Combating Human Trafficking
- CCJS 370: Race, Crime and Criminal Justice
- ECON175 Inequality: Determinants and Policy Remedies (3 Credits)
- FGSM380 Responses to Global Challenges (3 Credits)
- HLTH325 Poor in America: Health and Wellbeing (3 Credits)
- MIEH 400: Introduction to Global Health (3 credits)

For new or modified courses, please provide the course catalog information (credits, description, prerequisites, etc.). Suffix 'Selected' or 'Special' topics courses should be avoided. New courses and course modifications must be submitted through the course approval process at https://courseleaf.umd.edu/courseadmin. You may submit individual course changes through the course approval process concurrently with the program proposal; however, the course change approvals may be held until the program proposal is approved.

Impact on current students. It should be specifically acknowledged that students enrolled in the program prior to the effective date of any curriculum change may complete their program under the old requirements if they wish. The courses required must remain available, or suitable substitutions specifically designated.

This proposal expands on the acceptable courses to fulfill requirements for the global poverty minor. Students enrolled in the program prior to the effective date can complete the program under the old requirements if they wish, but these new additions will be granted as fulfilling the requirements of the global poverty minor regardless of when students declared the minor.

Linked Programs

Relationship to Other Units or Institutions

If a required or recommended course is offered by another department, discuss how the additional students will not unduly burden that department’s faculty and resources. Discuss any other potential impacts on another department, such as academic content that may significantly overlap with existing programs. Use space below for any comments. Otherwise, attach supporting correspondence.

We sought permission from each department for which we are seeking approval for the new electives, and the permissions were sent via email and are attached to this proposal.

Minor Program

Programmatic oversight. Who will be the faculty that oversee the minor?

Dr. Lars Olson

Describe how students are admitted to the minor program. If admission to the minor will be competitive, describe and explain the criteria that will be used for admission.

Open enrollment. Students complete an interest form and submit it to the Assistant Director of Undergraduate Programs at AREC.

Indicate who will provide advising for the minor program.

Lars Olson (ljolson) (04/20/20 12:43 pm): The Global Poverty Minor is a cross-campus minor that involves courses from many departments. Periodic updating of the list of approved electives is necessary to keep the minor current with regard to course offerings on campus.
Hi Lars,
Yes - I approve your listing of ANTH210 and ANTH310 for the Global Poverty Minor.

Best,

Dear Paul,

Chair, Anthropology

I am Director of the Global Poverty Minor, an interdisciplinary minor under the umbrella of the campus Global Studies Minor Program (www.globalstudies.umd.edu). We are in the process of updating the list of electives for the minor and I am writing to ask your approval to list ANTH210 Introduction to Medical Anthropology and Global Health and ANTH310 Method & Theory in Medical Anthropology and Global Health among the electives. This does not require your department to accommodate more students or to relax any restrictions that might exist for these courses. The goal is simply to keep electives in the minor up-to-date with current course offerings across campus relevant to the issue of global poverty.

Please give me a call if you would like to discuss this, if you have any questions or if you need any additional information.

I would be grateful if you could provide a response by Friday, April 3.

Dear Barbara,
Thank you very much for your prompt response. AREC offers a course on global poverty that is a signature course in the minor and that may be of interest to your students:

AREC 345: Global Poverty and Economic Development (Credits: 3, DSHS, DVUP) This interdisciplinary course explores social and economic development around the world. Topics include geography, democratization, political instability and conflict, health and education, agricultural development, micro-entrepreneurship, and an introduction to impact evaluation methods used to evaluate the efficacy of public policy aimed at alleviating poverty.

The second signature course in the minor is AREC365 World Hunger, Population, and Food Supplies (3 credits, DVUP). Both courses have no prerequisites.

Thanks again,
Lars

Hello Dr. Olson,

Yes, it is possible to list MIEH 400 as an elective. Unfortunately, we'll still need to limit enrollment to Public Health Science majors because of the size of the class.

Let me know if you have any questions.
